Practitioner-Led Research 2008-09

CWDC would like to commission up to 100 Practitioner-Led Research (PLR) projects across England that explore the ways in which integrated working policies have been translated into practice throughout the children's workforce.

We want to hear from people who work with children and young people on a paid or voluntary basis or from groups of children and young people who use these services and are being supported by a paid worker or volunteer.

CWDC will offer up to £3500 for applications from practitioners and up to £4000 for applications from children and young people, supported by a paid worker or volunteer. All the PLR projects will receive ongoing research support from Making Research Count (MRC).

The research programme will start in September 2008 and conclude in April 2009 with a series of celebration events.
